

'Hopalong Hamlet' Will Ride At Carver Center Tonight

Satirizing the giveaway show, an original radio and television program enacted by Carver Center Youth Theater members will be presented at 8:15 p. m. today, free to the public, at the center, 715 Monson street.

Even Shakespeare will come in for some of the hilarity, in a televised skit billed as "Hopalong Hamlet Rides Again," adapted from the original by "Billy the Kid."

For the giveaway program, Edward Gainer will be announcer, Jim Campbell is sound engineer, assisted by Tracy Hubble with live music, and commercials will be sung by the Kornpone Sisters. Ray Haley is to be quiz master.

Frank Haper is narrator for the westernized Hamlet. J. D. Stenson plays the title role, Dean Page is the crafty uncle, Tracy Hubble the unfaithful wife, Jerome Cain the ghost of Hamlet's father, and Imogene Williams appears as Ophelia. Others in the cast are Junior Tracy, Edward Eppinger, Ronnie Beckley and Bobbie Harper.

Producer and director of the show is Miss Juliette Whittaker, director of dramatic arts at the center.
