

MURAL AT CARVER UNVEILED SUNDAY

Center's Founder Is Among Subjects

The four-months work of Clarence Shivers, in the form of a mural painting, "Pursuit of Freedom," was unveiled before 120 persons Sunday at Carver Community Center.

Prominent figures portrayed in the mural includes Ralph Bunche, a recently-appointed judge; George Washington Carver, the scientist; Ernest T. Atwell, Carver Center founder; Jackie Robinson, baseball player; and Col. Benjamin Davis, Shiver's commanding officer during World War II.

In a pre-unveiling talk, Dr. Harry Wood, dean of fine arts at Bradley university and Shiver's advisor during the painting, said of the mural: "It will broaden understanding through art, in the tradition of the great mural painters of the Renaissance and Mexico."

Musical selections were presented by the Carver Quartet, directed by Odie Mae Haydon. The Rev. E. P. Williams, pastor of Ward Chapel, A. M. E., gave the invocation. Frank Camel, director of men's work, was master of ceremonies. Star-News
